ISC goes to the head of the computer table class

Arlington, Texas; Information Support Concepts, Inc. announced today they have revamped their entire line of computer tables to fit the changing needs of classrooms and training centers. "These innovative improvements will enable the customer to choose the tables that work best with their floor plan and their hardware as well as their networking needs, power considerations and personnel requirements," ISC vice president, Kevin Hunt said.

Some of the key changes include tables with a recessed area for CRTs and Flat Panel Screens. This allows better viewing for the user as well as a better line of sight for use in instructional environments. Many of the tables have single or double post adjustable legs for convenience and comfort. Whatever the requirements the customer may have, there is a model to fit their needs.

To see actual illustrated examples of the improved options now available through ISC simply go on line to www.iscdfw.com for a more overall comprehensive picture. The visuals on this website will help customers choose the right products for their needs.

There have also been improvements in the delivery of these products. The computer tables marked "Quick Ship" will ship within ten working days after receipt of the order. For quantities over ten or computer tables not on the "Quick Ship" program, allow four weeks shipping time.

"We pride ourselves in being one step ahead of the customer's changing needs by staying in touch with advancements in the industry," Mr. Hunt said. ISC will continually upgrade their products to meet the changing needs of their customers.
